Product Description

Cooling system air cooled condenser for refrigeration equipment

Finned condenser is a high efficiency condensing radiator specially designed for refrigeration compressor condensing unit and parallel compressor unit. There are three structural forms: H-type, V-type and U-type. Different combinations of width and length and blowing direction, side air outlet and top air outlet modes ensure the best adaptability: different combinations of fan numbers ensure the adjustment of condensation pressure. External rotor motor can also be selected to reduce motor.
